Cambria-Friesland Annual Meeting and Budget Hearing

On Monday, October 26, 2020, the Cambria-Friesland School District held its annual school district meeting as regulated by Wisconsin state statutory requirements. Although much of the meeting reviews and approves duties and responsibilities of the School Board and District, the meeting is often dominated by the presentation and approval of the school district's annual budget.

From the 2019-2020 school term to 2020-2021, the equalized value of the district grew from $210,444,824.00 to $222,603,128.00, a growth of $12,158,304.00 or 5.78%. This equalization value growth resulted in an overall lower mill levy of $11.47 per $1,000. This has resulted in a decrease of .69 cents from the 2019-2020 school year. Please note the equalized value is not the same as it's assessed value. Equalized valuation is also referred to as the fair market value. The fair market value is an adjusted value of property made by the Wisconsin Department of Revenue. A total levy of $2,519,206.00 was approved at the Annual Meeting.

For the week of November 2 - 6 the district closed due to COVID-19 related reasons. The pandemic continues to have high infection rates and our district, like the rest of the state remains part of those increases. As a district we have made a commitment to providing a 5 day/week face-to-face learning experience for our children. To assist us in mitigating the threat of the virus within our walls we remind our parents and families to be conscious of illness and sickness at home. This includes contacting primary physicians and doctors when there are suspected cases of COVID-19 within the family. Children of families with suspected or confirmed cases need to remain at home until it is determined whether or not they're not contagious. Communication with school officials by our families is essential to ensuring we're doing all that we can to keep the disease outside of our building and from our classrooms.

Moving into the second semester of the year, the district is examining a continuation of the online learning programs. We realize for some families and students the virtual learning option has not been a positive experience. Not knowing the direction of our state and areas positivity rate, the district is anticipating a renewal of these virtual learning options. As we move into January, we will be providing listening and learning sessions for families who may want to move to the virtual learning option.

With Thanksgiving around the corner, I hope that throughout all the challenges our students, families, and community members have experienced all of us we take a moment to recognize the many good things that are part of our lives. It's when we're challenged most that all of us have the opportunity to be thankful for the people and things we do have everyday in our lives.

With Much Gratitude and Thanks,

Timothy L. Raymond Ed.S.
Superintendent of Schools
Cambria-Friesland School District

THANKFULNESS VS CHALLENGES

When we can't guarantee from one week to the next, or even one day to the next that our schools will be open or our students and staff will remain healthy, when our daily lives are turned upside down with little to no notice not once, but multiple times, that's when the idea of being thankful truly presents a challenge.

We could easily say that at least we're not coping with wildfires or hurricanes on top of everything else. But, just knowing that others may have even greater challenges, doesn't make dealing with what we face every day any easier.

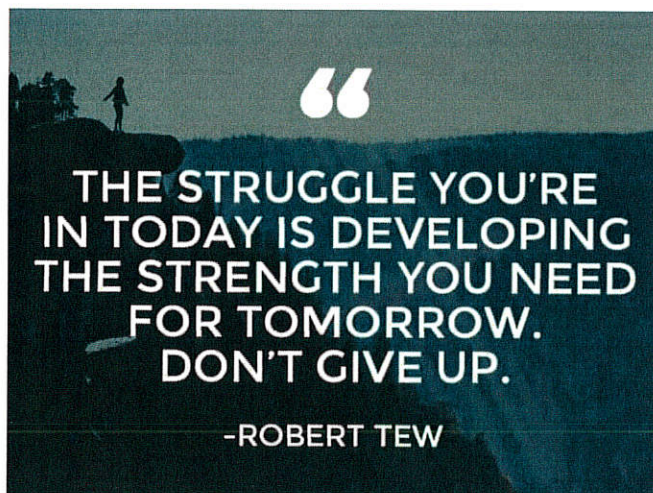

In fact, some might argue that dealing with the intense crisis of a natural disaster might be easier. After all, no one is expecting you to maintain a semblance of normalcy during an active crisis. It's rather the difference between an acute heart attack and a chronic heart condition. You can skirt into emergency mode and deal with an acute problem by focusing all your energy on it and letting everything else go. But, this only works for a short time.

When a condition is chronic, we don't have the luxury of letting everything else go. We somehow have to manage the chronic condition as well as everything else we are expected to do in our lives.

So, we learn to live with knowing that some days we may be teaching and learning within our school building and some days we may be teaching and learning from within our homes. We aren't happy about it and any and every flaw or inconsistency is exposed like an open wound that never has the opportunity to heal. We become worn down and at times even give up.

What in the midst of all of this, can we find to be thankful for? I find myself thankful for every day that our students and staff are able to be in our building. We can not take a single day for granted. I'm thankful that even if it's difficult, there are ways available to continue teaching and learning when we can't be in the building.

Seeing young people take ownership of their own learning is a powerful motivator. Knowing that frustration stemming from technological or communication challenges can lead a student to give up or withdraw, we need to continue identifying these challenges and be thankful that we have the ability to overcome them. There are many things in our world today that are beyond our control, but the ability to provide a quality education is not one of them. It may not look the same way we remember it, and there may be more trial and error than we would like to see, But, this is something we can do, and together we will do it.

- Debra Torrison, MS/HS Principal

"30 Million Word Gap"

Several generations ago a study was published that suggested that by age 3, the wealthiest children will have heard 30 million more words than their poorer counterparts. While this study has been under fire over the past decade, the ramifications of language acquisition have not been debunked. While "30 million" may be hyperbole, experts still suggest that quality, face to face conversation with our toddlers is a crucial aspect of learning to communicate and ultimately, learning to read. This suggests the reading achievement gap is environmental and one of the best things we can do to prepare our children for this world is to give them the power to communicate and set them up for success in literacy.

Some ways to support your toddlers journey to talking are:

- Copy your toddler
- Show them items and name them
- Keep communication face to face and uninterrupted
- Sing to your toddler
- Keep the environment quiet (no tv in the background)

Learning on Hold

In an effort to return to some level of normalcy, I would like to share the findings of a research article from three years ago, the results of which are as true today as they were when published. Smartphone use, over the last decade, has been a topic for discussion. Typically we find ourselves complaining about children's screen consumption and teens obsession with their smartphones. At first glance we conclude that these devices must be harming our children's ability to concentrate and complete tasks, eroding their patience, and helping to create a society craving instant gratification.

The research I am focusing on, however, suggests something overt occurring with the constant connection to our devices:

Research has proven that responsive interactions are imperative for language development for children. Through communicating and observing communication in a predictable manner, children can obtain language. The earlier a child can utilize their verbal language, the earlier they can begin to use that language to help them complete tasks, fulfill needs, and learn.

This research suggests that parent-child interaction in the 21st century is fraught with interruptions, disrupting normal language learning patterns. This means that our children are acquiring language later which leads to learning important language concepts later. While the consequences may not seem dire, that our children must learn patience when adults are "busy", the reality is we are the teachers of language to our children. We teach them societal norms and back and forth communication, uninterrupted, should be one of them. The study found that children as young as three could recognize the violation of conversational maxims when a parent disengaged with a child mid conversation to look at or answer their smartphone. Toddlers whose conversations were interrupted performed worse on different cognitive tasks than those whose conversations were not interrupted. Here is a link to the study: <https://templeinfantlab.com/wp-content/uploads/sites/2/2017/12/Learning-on-Hold.pdf>

November Edition

Job Shadows may look a bit different this year, but students are still seeking ways to connect with industry professionals using VCEs.

What are VCE's?

Virtual Career Events are Career-Based Learning Experiences for students in a virtual environment utilizing the Zoom platform. Most of the sessions will be career specific "Job Shadows" featuring Academic and Career Planning activities facilitated by various business professional, school counselors, and educators and question + answer with vetted career mentors. Other VCEs may include Company Conversations that feature one specific company or "Real World Ready" workshops that might include topics such as interview skills or resume building tips. Students participating in live sessions can ask questions in the chat feature. All microphones and video will be disabled to maintain student privacy.

Check out these areas students can be involved in:

November 2020

Breakfast

Our New Breakfast routine has been going great. We are serving 2 different lines for breakfast. One is our Elementary School and the other is the Middle and High School. We start serving at 8:00 and the whole school is served by 8:10. The students then take their breakfast back to their classrooms to eat.

Deliveries

The Kitchen crew work hard everyday to provide healthy meals to all of our school. In addition to preparing meals every day we receive deliveries weekly and also once a month from our commodities. Most of the cases weigh between 30 and 50 pounds so we definitely get our work out.

We hope everyone is enjoying their meals here at school. Remember all breakfast and lunch are free to children in our school district. If you have any questions feel free to contact us. Have a great November.

Ellen, Dede, Sandra and Lisa

Columbia County to Hold FREE COVID-19 Testing

Portage, WI - Columbia County Public Health has requested assistance from the Wisconsin National Guard to provide free COVID-19 testing. The National Guard will be providing drive-through COVID-19 nasal swab testing in Cambria every other Friday starting on October 23, 2020 between the hours of 8:30 am and 4:30 pm. Additional testing dates include November 6, 2020, November 20, 2020 and December 4, 2020. *

This event will be held at the Cambria Fire Department located at 702 Elizabeth Street, Cambria. The free testing is open to the community and appointments are NOT necessary. In an effort to save time, we encourage online registration. If you do not register online, you will still be tested. Staff on site will assist in the registration process. Registration should be done no sooner than 24 hours prior to the event at <https://register.covidconnect.wi.gov/en-US/>. Due to the unknown amount of interest, prepare for potential wait times. It is requested that vehicles form a line and stay in the mode of transportation at all times. No restroom facilities will be available on site, please plan accordingly.

The National Guard will be doing the testing, they will be in uniform and full personal protective equipment. Individuals will be contacted with their results within 3-7 business days. A reminder to continue using safe practices like washing your hands, staying home and social distancing. Please visit our website for further guidance and up to date information at:

<https://www.co.columbia.wi.us/columbiacounty/hhs/HealthHumanService/PublicHealth/Coronavirus/tabid/9196/Default.aspx>

Columbia County Public Health understands this is not a central site for our county, but it allows access to needed testing to our residents on a consistent basis. We are continuing to work on identifying and securing additional testing sites in our county.

* Please note these dates are subject to change based on needs identified by the COVID-19 Response Team as this response continues to evolve.
